

Example Conclusion Paragraph

Name:

Overall claim: Peter Neilsen was a very brave character and without him and the other Resistance fighters, the Nazi occupation of Denmark would have been much different.

Conclusion Paragraph:

In conclusion, Peter was a very brave character, and his Resistance work helped many Jewish people. Even though he suffered a terrible personal loss, he fearlessly worked against the Nazis, and saved many people. He completed many different missions, such as leading Jews to safety or passing along important information. He faced death with no fear, and served as a good example for future generations. If not for him and other Resistance fighters' hard work and bravery, the Nazis would have killed more Jewish people, causing today's Jewish population to be even further weakened.

Conclusion Checklist:

- Starts with a transition
- Restates the reasons AND the claim
- Leaves with a final comment or sentence to keep the reader thinking
